Obstetrical Fees and Information

Let us take this opportunity to explain the fees that you will incur during your pregnancy at our office.

There are two types of charges that you will have:

GLOBAL CHARGES

Consult with nurse/physician
Routine ob visits(up to 14)
Delivery: vaginal or cesarean
One postpartum exam

The charge for this GLOBAL fee is:

Vaginal: $4004 Twins: $5797

Cesarean: $4424 VBAC: $4193

This global fee will be filed to your insurance company after your delivery. We will obtain an estimate from your insurance company as to what your portion of this GLOBAL fee will be. This estimate will be due by your sixth month of pregnancy. You can make payments each time you come in or pay a lump sum at the sixth month visit. Keep in mind that this is not a guarantee of payment. The insurance company determines final payment when the services are billed.

NON-GLOBAL CHARGES:

These are any additional services that you have during your visits. Here is a list of a few common charges.

Ultrasound-complete $294.00 This is usually done around 20 weeks of pregnancy

Ultrasound-limited $218.00

Fetal Non-stress test $161

Hemoglobin $13.00

Blood drawing fee $13.00

Glucola lab test $29.00

Any visits that are not routine ob visits will fall under non-global, as well as any ultrasounds, lab work or additional testing that you have at your visits.

All non-global charges will be filed to your insurance at the date of service. Any amount due after insurance has processed will be due at the next appointment following insurance processing.

It is very important that you inform our front desk of any insurance changes that occur during your pregnancy. We need this information before you are seen at the visit your new insurance is in effect. This will help us to make sure all labs are processed at the correct lab as well as verify your new global benefits.

Any disability forms or FMLA forms brought to be filled out is as 7-day turnaround time on these being completed and returned.

Please do not hesitate to let us know if you have any questions.
